Message from Editor-in-Chief

Fall has arrived! Hard to believe that we are now in the final three months of this calendar year. I write to each and every one of you with much excitement as the Mid Atlantic Foundation for Asian Artists, Inc. (MAFFAA) and the Philippine American Coalition (PhilAmCo) of American University prepare to celebrate Filipino American History Month on Saturday, October 10, 2015.

Entitled, "The Three Waves of Migration," this unique student-led joint production will seek to highlight the three major waves of migration that aided in developing and creating the present day Filipino-American community. This event will showcase the rich history and cultural diversity of Filipino immigrants from the turn of the twentieth century to contemporary times through dance, music and the arts.

We hope that you will join us for an evening of history - both past and present, as we reflect on the important contributions of Filipino-Americans in the United States to date. To learn more on this production and how you can help contribute to its success please be sure to check out my official invite in this newsletter. All major sponsors and supporters will be recognized accordingly in our program materials.

Respectfully,
